Margaret M. Glembocki, DNP, RN, ACNP-BC, CSC, FAANP, Assistant Professor of Nursing, Lawrence Technological University, Southfield, Michigan Cardiac Surgery Nurse Practitioner, Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, Michigan Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner

I have been a forensic nurse since the infancy, well toddler phase, of my nursing career in 2001. At that time, I started practicing as a SANE and have continued to practice through out my career stepping away during certain phases of life yet I always come back. Additionally, I am an educator and have taught at the graduate level in forensic nursing as well as co-developed an MSN program in Forensic Nursing. Currently, my focus is advancing the science of forensic nursing science through research and scholarship as this is much needed in our specialty.

The 12 years of full-time academic teaching has provided me the opportunity to chair and participate on many committees. I am also active in the American Association of Critical-Care Nurses where I have been a member of the Cardiac Surgery Certification Committee and the NTI Annual Conference Planning Committee. Although I have yet to have the opportunity to serve as a board member within a professional organization, I am an active member at the IAFN. I am currently an active member of the Social Justice Committee and often facilitate the Implicit Bias workshop offered to membership. Additionally, I am a member of the Research Committee where I have been an abstract and grant reviewer as well as part of the strategic planning sub-committee.

My education: BSN (Madonna University, Michigan), a MSN as an Acute Care Nurse Practitioner (Wayne State University, Michigan), DNP (Oakland University, Michigan), and is completing a DNP to PhD (Duquesne University, Pennsylvania) with a research focus on intimate partner violence.

I have published and presented on the topics of professional nursing practice and forensic nursing practice. My passion is to empower and advance nursing, especially forensic nursing, at all levels as well as improving quality of health care through education, practice, and research. A little bit of spotlight for me, I was inducted as a Fellow in the American Association of Nurse Practitioners in June 2013 and a Faculty Daisy recipient in 2021.
